

Meeting Notice

Open Web Steel Joist Composite Floor Systems

Please join us for a seminar on open web steel joist composite floor systems. It will be given by Ric Anderson PE, project engineer for the Ecospan Composite Floor System supplied by Nucor – Vulcraft, who has research and design experience with multiple floor systems encompassing residential to high rise construction. This presentation will discuss the benefits of composite steel joist systems, in conjunction with how to properly specify these floor systems. Additional topics of discussion will be camber, vibration and other design considerations when specifying an open web composite joist system.
